HOT NOW!

On-Stage Holographic TelePresence

Remember watching Star Wars fascinated by the idea that by holographic image, you could project yourself to an audience that you could interact with in real time?

Well now you can bring that reality to your next conference or event.

If you need to overcome geographical distance and "beam in" a speaker or if you want to create a "WOW" factor show with performers defying physical limits being projected in 3D around a room then the technology of holographic telepresence is what you need.

For more information about incorporating hologram technology at your next conference or event contact Directions today on T: (+61 2) 9565 6500

PLAY!

A Sandy Challenge!

Directions took advantage of the glorious Sydney sunshine last week and participated in a sand castle building challenge! With buckets and spades in hand, and working with sand in all sorts of places, our team engineered amazing sand castle creations that astonished even us! The temporary masterpieces were certainly a sight to behold - we almost couldn't bear to see the waves wash them away.

If you are interested in sand castle building for your next team building activity, call Directions today.

EXCITING

Dance Your Head Off!

We have found the most fun team activity for your next corporate event where everyone is a STAR!

DANCE HEADS!! Its where everyone can channel their inner Beyonce or Elvis and take the music video world by storm. Employing the use of green screen A/V technology your team members get to buddy up to perform a hit number of their choice.

Once they take their place on the green screen stage its lights camera action for your team! The music plays, the tape rolls, the record button is hit and the head dancing begins. Super imposed on their star bodies, watch your team co-ordinate lip syncing with head bobbing to be the most fabulous rock music video stars they can be! We promise this is one activity where your team will be rolling with laughter!

Oh, and the best part of this corporate team building activity is that its all in your head so no talent is required! Plus you get to take home a DVD of your teams hit music video performance.

For more info on DANCE HEADS call Directions today.
